

Web Data & Privacy Policy

C-Quip Ltd do not disclose buyers' information to any third party, other than freight forwarders to fulfil delivery of the order placed.

All information received when placing your order will only be used for fulfilling your order in a timely and accurate manner. Data received from items purchased will only be used internally to ensure timely purchasing, improve the service we provide, and on occasion to allow the company to provide special targeted offers.

We do use cookies on the website, but these are functional and are essential for the shopping basket to work. We do not use cookies for tracking users across the site.

Email addresses provided may be used periodically to send promotional emails about new products, special offers or other information which we think you may find interesting. It is possible to opt out of this service either by unsubscribing on the link provided on the email, or by contacting the sales team.

As C-Quip Ltd is a trade wholesaler, we do not store or request any personal details from our customers. All information held is of a commercial nature. This data is securely held for a relevant period of time, as per statutory requirements, and is never released to a third party. At any given time, a customer may request to see the data held on them.
